PRESIDENTS ROOSEVELT'S PROGRESSIVE POLICY

The Charlotte Observer in a recent editorial says:

There is an element in the South which reviles a Republican President for outrageous bad Republican appointments in the South, which, when he makes good Democratic appointments, assails him for trying to buy the South for his party with offices.

The only paper we have seen that goes to the extent of charging that President Roosevelt is attempting to bribe certain men in the South by offering them important appointments is the Raleigh News and Observer. It seems to us that the Charlotte Observer is entirely too complimentary to the News and Observer in calling that paper an "element in the South." There may be a few other papers in this State and other Southern States with the same low standard as the News and Observer, but it is to be hoped that they are scarce.

No matter what the political effect of President Roosevelt's course in appointing such a man as ex-Governor Jones, of Alabama, to a United States judgeship and in making similar appointments in other states, every good citizen in the State or states concerned, and, indeed, the whole nation should be pleased at his actions and applaud the same.

It is perfectly clear the President Roosevelt is not pandering to the spoilsman who go to him seeking office and promise in return therefor to deliver State delegations to him in the next Republican National Convention to secure his nomination. In the past this has been one of the curses of Republican politics in the South and is the thing that has resulted in putting so many incompetent men in office. The President evidently realizes that this class of Republican politicians has been equally as much responsible as the Democratic ballot box stuffers in producing the deplorable conditions that exist today in too many Southern States. He realizes that this class of Republican office hunters has never wanted to build up a strong, progressive party in opposition to the Democratic machine, but has wanted to keep the party small so that the division of offices would be easy. The President evidently realizes also that in order that the South may develop and prosper industrially, as it deserves to do and can do with its great resources, this deplorable political condition must be changed, and every good citizen should be delighted to see that he is using his powerful influence to that end.

A WELCOME TO DR. THOMPSON.

The friends of Hon. Cyrus Thompson, late Secretary of State, will be pleased to learn that he has been tendered and has accepted a position as chief clerk in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue. North Carolina has never had an able and more efficient Secretary of State than Dr. Thompson.

Collector Duncan is to be congratulated upon securing the services of so valuable and experienced a man for the important position in his office. Upon his return to Raleigh from his farm in Onslow county to assume his new duties. Dr. Thompson was warmly welcomed and congratulated by his many friends of all parties in Raleigh.

EX-STATE TREASURER WORTH.

The State has never had more competent and efficient Treasurer than Hon. W. H. Worth. We take it that this will be admitted by those of all parties who know him and that they will accord him genuine sympathy, instead of blame, for the misfortune which has come to him because of the embezzlement by a clerk in his office of $16,000 of the State's funds.

Mr. Worth has promptly paid into the State Treasury the amount embezzled and has begun suit against the embezzling clerk's bondsmen. It is to be hoped that he will succeed in recovering the money which he has been forced to pay from his own pocket without any fault on his part.

In their reports as to the size of the audience assembled to hear Senator Pritchard at Louisville, the Democratic newspapers vary all the way from 500 to 3,000. If these red-shirt organs want to keep the confidence of the people as to the truth of anything they publish they should not differ so widely and extravagantly in their estimates, and thus contradict each other.

You should not feel tired all the time—healthy people don't—you won't if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla for awhile.

SENATOR PRITCHARD AT LOUISBURG.

He Delivers a Strong and Thoughtful Speech to a Large and Attentive Audience.

Below we give some extracts from Senator Pritchard's speech at Louisville referred to in last issue:

"We have at last reached that period in our history as a State when we can afford to calmly and dispassionately consider the many questions that are being presented to us for solution. The people of the South have suffered much in the past, giving too much attention to sentiment, and not enough consideration to the great problems that have so vitally affected the welfare of the nation. At the close of the late civil war the Southern people were left in a deplorable condition. The misfortunes which confronted us at that time, resulting from the conflict in which we had been engaged, were unavoidable, but the Democratic leaders who undertook to shape the policy for our section did not seem to appreciate the fact that the one great problem with which we were called upon at that time to contend was that of the development of our resources, and instead of attempting to shape legislation so as to secure for this section its just proportion of the benefits that could have been realized therefrom, the leaders of the Democratic party devoted their time and energy in attempting to keep alive sectional and race prejudices, and in vigorously opposing any and all measures that were calculated to bring about the commercial and industrial development of the South. While Southern Democratic representatives in Congress were grumbling about questions that had forever been settled and in many instances forgotten by the progressive people of the country, the representatives from other sections were grappling with real live issues and setting them in accordance with the ever-increasing demands of the commercial conditions incident to our rapid growth and expansion as a nation. The action of the Southern Democratic representatives was calculated to postpone and delay the development of our enterprises, while the policy pursued by representatives from other sections resulted in giving their communities great wealth and a degree of industrial development which had never been attained in this or any other country during the same length of time. As a result of the legislation they secured, their coal and iron mines were developed, they manufactured every article known to mankind, furnished employment for the laboring men at remunerative wages, built large cities and constructed great railroads, built churches and school houses, and educated all classes of their people, while on the other hand, many sections of our Southern country, with the same natural advantages, and in many instances opportunities that were superior to those of any section of the country, remained in an undeveloped state, comparatively few large cities were built, our children were not furnished proper educational advantages, and until within the last few years but little material development was made in any direction."

Today, we are brought face to face with the great problems which we, as a part of the nation, are called upon to assist in solving in an intelligent and patriotic manner. "We were told by Governor Aycock in his campaign last summer that the adoption of the constitutional amendment would mean freedom of thought by which I presume that he meant to say in the event of the adoption of the proposed amendment to our constitution that the white people of Eastern Carolina would in the future be permitted to pass upon public questions in accordance with reason and common sense. In other words, he gave as a reason for his advocacy of that proposition, that its adoption would have a tendency to emancipate the white man who resided in Eastern Carolina from a slavery which, in some respects, had been worse than that which, in some respects, had been worse than that which was endured by the black man prior to emancipation. Many of the white men of the South, and especially in Eastern Carolina, have been in intellectual slavery since 1868, and the approaching election will be the first opportunity that has been afforded to enjoy freedom of thought."

"But will the leaders of the Democratic party permit the people to deal with these questions in accordance with the dictates of their better judgment? In an editorial published in the News and Observer on last Thursday morning among other things we find the following: "But—the negro will not be eliminated from politics until he is deported and all the predictions based upon such elimination will therefore fall to the ground."

"This is a remarkable statement, in view of the assurances that were made to the people on every stump in North Carolina by Democratic speakers in the last campaign. We were told by Democratic editors that the adoption of the amendment to our constitution would forever settle the race question, and that in the future the people of the State would be afforded an opportunity to pass upon the questions which were submitted to them in an intelligent manner, and that no man's action would be questioned on account of any position which he might assume with respect to such questions. We are now informed by Mr. Daniels that there is but one way to eliminate the negro from politics, and that is to deport him. Are the farmers of Eastern Carolina prepared to endorse the latest proposal of the editor of the News and Observer, which, if adopted, will necessarily result in depriving the farmers of that section of the labor which is so essential to the cultivation of their cotton, tobacco and other crops? I am sure that they will not agree to such a proposition, but on the other hand will be inclined to exercise the intellectual freedom which was promised them by the Democratic party two years ago."

The South has more natural advantages than any other section of the country. West Virginia has 16,000 square miles of coal as compared with Great Britain's 12,000. The South has nearly one-half of the States in the world. It furnishes three-fourths of the cotton required by the one hundred million spindles in the world. It has a monopoly of the phosphate rock, which is the basis of the fertilizer business both in this country and Europe, to say nothing about the many other advantages that are to be found in abundance throughout this section.

"In spite of the efforts of Southern Democratic representatives to discourage the investment of capital in the South, its cotton mills represented in 1900 a money value of $150,000,000, against $61,000,000 ten years earlier. The amount of cotton consumed in three mills was 1,597,112 bales, against 546,894 bales in 1890. The number of spindles in operation was 6,200,000, against 1,712,930 in 1890. The railroad mileage in the South has increased in these same ten years from 42,825 to 52,000 miles. The amount of coal mined has increased from 21,500,000 to 48,192,053 tons, and the amount of pig iron produced from 1,953,459 to 2,694,671 tons. The same ten years saw an increase in the value of agricultural products in the South from $66,000,000 to $1,200,000,000, and in the value of exports from $315,021,000 to $330,317,545. For the first time since the American occupation in the Philippines, the United States in the month of May last headed the list of nations sending merchandise to Manila from the United States during the month of May were valued at $2,460,431. While I have not had an opportunity to examine the report with a view of ascertaining the character of exports which we sent to that country, I am satisfied that the majority of the items represent Southern products. In this connection I call attention to the fact that the total exports from Wilmington to foreign countries in 1900 were $10,975,511. In 1901 they were $12,013,659, an increase of $1,038,148. This is most encouraging for our chief seaport, and is another reason for a continuance of Republican policies. There can be no doubt that the increase of Southern progress would have been more marked had it not been for the revolutionary policy of the Democratic leaders of the South. The tactics of men like Senator Tillman and their blind followers in North Carolina and elsewhere have done much to retard the progress which would otherwise have been made throughout our Southern section. It was only the other day that Mr. Tillman, in a public speech delivered in the State of South Carolina, threatened the cotton mill interests of that section in the event that those who are engaged in that industry should undertake to exercise the prerogatives of American citizens by expressing themselves with respect to public questions which vitally affect their welfare as a class of people."

Referring to the men in the Democratic party who favor free speech and honest elections and industrial progress, and who therefore oppose the methods of the Simmons Red Shirt machine, but are still staying in the party hoping to reform it, he said:

"These men are honest in their belief, but they are so mistaken when they for one moment entertain the idea that the Democratic party is now constituted in North Carolina will ever cease to be controlled by a class of men whose chief desire is to perpetuate themselves in office, regardless of the bearing that the policies which they advocate may have upon the general welfare of the people of our State. As an evidence of this fact one need only refer to the acts of the last Legislature, some of which I propose to briefly discuss later on."

"One would hardly imagine that any party would attempt to make free trade an issue in the future, in view of the wonderful object lesson which has been afforded the country at large since March 4, 1893, but we are doomed to disappointment with this respect, especially in so far as North Carolina Democracy is concerned. My colleague, Senator Simmons, on the 7th of last September, in an interview published in the Washington, among other things made the following statement: "So far as the South is concerned, at least, the Democrats recognize the silver question as temporarily eliminated from national political affairs. I do not say that it must slumber for a few years. In my opinion the big issue in the next campaign will be the tariff. I think that it will be more talked of, and will cause a closer drawing of lines than anything else."

"It is amusing to hear the leader of the Democratic party in North Carolina say that the silver question, which was the only real live issue which the Democrats offered in 1896, must be required to slumber for a few years. The order of things next year is to be just the reverse of what they were in 1896. At that time the tariff question was an embarrassing one for the Democrats to handle, and they let it slumber, until they imagine that the people have forgotten the many heartaches and financial disasters that were directly traceable to the free trade legislation which had been enacted by the Democrats while they were in power."

[At this point the Senator should have the New England manufacturer who has grown rich by manufacturing our raw materials from the South, now wants free trade because the South has begun to manufacture its own raw material. He should have the South ready to prosper by protection as New England had done. Yet at this very time the Democratic leaders and the New England manufacturers are ready to join hands to rob the South of its advantages and prosperity under proper protection for our infant industries.]

Concluding he said: "The Democratic party having failed in its efforts to manage our affairs, the inquiry which arises as to whether it can be entrusted with the management and control of the affairs of the State of North Carolina. I am prepared to show by evidence that is indisputable, that its efforts to legislate for the people of North Carolina will prove as fatal to the industrial welfare of our people from a local standpoint as its efforts in Congress prove disastrous from a national point of view."

"The Revenue Act passed by the last Legislature is a long step in the direction of the party toward which the Democratic party in North Carolina is drifting. Many of its provisions are different from any revenue act that has ever adopted. While I am informed that many of the objectionable features of the original bill which was introduced early in the session were eliminated at the same time it contains many provisions that are calculated to cripple the industrial enterprises of our State. So obvious are the provisions of the revenue act that our State Auditor, among other things, has been compelled to write a letter of apology to the officers of the private corporations doing business in the State. This letter was dated June 25th, 1901. Among other things the Auditor says:

"This is a novel law for our people, and yet I do not think it is the purpose of the legislature to oppress the corporations by an unjust tax. I am sure it is not the purpose of this department to do anything of that kind. I want you gentlemen to understand that it is the desire of this department to accept the appraisal which you make of your property for taxation as final."

"These quotations furnish the keynote to the situation. When in the history of North Carolina has the legislature enacted a revenue act which was so odious as to require the Auditor of the State, who is a sworn official, to assume the role of apologist for the acts of the legislative branch of the government? Mr. Dixon says: 'I do not think it was the purpose of the legislature to oppress the corporations by an unjust tax.' He was careful to avoid anything like a positive declaration to the effect that it was not the purpose of the legislature to oppress the corporations by an unjust tax."

"The Senator then proceeded to show up the great injustice of the merchants tax passed by the last Legislature, and also the timber law and especially the unjust laws against private corporations and industrial progress."

In conclusion he said: "We should bear in mind that many of our sister States are possessed of equal advantages with that of North Carolina, and it is suicidal on our part to enact any law which is calculated to discourage those who are likely to invest their capital in the many industries that are now being developed throughout the State. This class of corporations or capitalists from all sections of the country to come among us and to assist in the development of our wonderful resources. We are peculiarly blessed with natural advantages, but in many sections we are sadly in need of the capital necessary to secure their utilization. The property which we now enjoy may not only be crippled, but it is possible for unjust legislation to completely destroy it. There is a growing tendency on the part of the Democratic party in North Carolina to discriminate against private corporations. This class of corporations got the right to perform in a corporate capacity such acts as the private citizen is entitled to do without any authority from the State. Public corporations, such as railroads, municipal corporations, street cars and water-works, exercise the right of eminent domain, and in some instances perform some of the functions of government, but it is entirely different with the private corporation, and there is no justification for levying a rate of taxation on its property in excess of that levied upon the property of the individual, but when we object to the private corporations, as well as the rate of taxation which they are required to pay, we are gravely informed by our Democratic friends that Pennsylvania requires corporations to answer all the questions that are required to be answered by our revenue act. While this is true, the total tax levied on private corporations by the State of Pennsylvania, except such as engage in the manufacture and sale of whiskey, does not exceed five dollars on the thousand. Corporations in Asheville, Charlotte, Wilmington, Raleigh, and other towns, pay more than $20 on $1,000 valuation. If the corporations of our cities and towns could have their taxes assessed at the rate adopted by the State of Pennsylvania, they would not doubt be willing to agree to an enlargement of the iniquitous features of our revenue act."

"In a State like North Carolina, where there are but few men of great wealth, it is utterly impracticable to secure the development of our industries by the individual, and it can only be secured through the formation of organizations of individuals of moderate means who are willing to trust each other, and who are able to engage in these enterprises by combining their capital. These are questions that should engage the serious consideration of our people."

"The result of the war with Spain among other things has opened up new opportunities for the people of the South. We now see a way by which we can establish an ever increasing trade in the Orient. With the construction of the Nicaragua canal and the rehabilitation of our merchant marine will come an era of prosperity for the Southern people that will eclipse anything that has ever been dreamed of by the people of our section. These things can only be obtained by the South giving her hearty support to those who advocate the principles of Republicanism."

"The business men of the South have reached the parting of the ways, and it is for them to decide whether or not they are willing to follow blindly the lead of a class of men whose every act is antagonistic to the interests which they represent, as well as the general welfare of our section."

OHIO REPUBLICANS.

Delaware, O., Oct. 19.—The opening of the Ohio campaign here today by the Republicans was the most largely attended for years.

There was little reference to State affairs by Sherman Warner, or by Nathan Nippard, who head the State ticket, and none by Senators Foraker and Hanna. When Senator Foraker referred to President Roosevelt entertaining Prof. Booker T. Washington, "as a representative of the colored race," there was quite a demonstration. The greatest demonstration of the day was when Senator Hanna declared that he did not intend to quit politics or resign as Senator or as chairman of the Republican national committee.

SANTOS DUMONT AIRSHIP.

The Inventor at Last Succeeds in Winning the Grand Prize.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The Santos Dumont airship ascended at St. Cloud at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon, and five minutes afterwards began to round the Eiffel Tower.

Santos Dumont completed his trip successfully, but a question has arisen as to whether it was within the time limit—thirty minutes. M. Deutsch says the Aero-naut won the prize. The committee, however, declares M. Santos Dumont took 30 minutes; 40-47 seconds to make the trip.

THE ROYAL MONK AND THE ROYAL DUCHESS.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrupulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its business cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit to more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative—consumption.

WHO ARE THE ANARCHISTS?

The Democratic Leaders Evince Traits of Anarchism in their Campaigns.

KELFORD, N. C., Oct. 7th, 1901. TO THE EDITOR:—The conduct of the now dominant party in 1898 was not bad, it was atrocious.

We have no words in our language to express the atrocities of that party in the year 1900. Yet a writer in the Raleigh Post of the 29th ult., charges the Populist party with being "tainted with anarchism" in 1898. I am glad that in the attempt to prove this charge to be true, he utterly fails, but before thinking men shows his own party guilty.

He quotes from the Standard Dictionary, the meaning of anarchism to be—"especially one who would cause violence to destroy the existing social and civil order of things." But in marshalling his facts to prove the taint of anarchy in the Populist party he is able to name only one speaker who talked of bullets to be used instead of ballots, when the latter failed to secure and maintain our liberties.

But what of the slaughter of scores of unarmed citizens by his own party when the election of 1898 was over, in what is now known as the Wilmington massacre? What of shooting white poll-keepers by his party, and seizing ballot boxes at midnight by armed mobs, and destroying them in order to count themselves in regardless of the popular vote? If these facts conform to the meaning of anarchism as quoted by the Raleigh Morning Post from the Standard Dictionary, then his own party is guilty of anarchy in 1898 and in 1900.

Was the Wilmington massacre intended to seal ballot box stuffing with blood, or was it to place the mark of blood on the lintels and door posts of the 109,543 white majority in our state who had voted them out of power in the exercise of their right to name those who should rule over them to warn them of what was to come in 1900?

The leaders of the Legislature of 1900 declared on the floor of the House that "the spirit of 1898 must be kept alive." That spirit that led to the Wilmington massacre, and the shooting of poll keepers, and seizing ballot boxes by armed mobs at midnight. Is not the writer in the Post a propagandist of that spirit, that was to be kept in the years to come as a live coal of anarchism in the bosom of the dominant party, to be fanned into a flame in campaign. I commend to the propagandist and tramer of that grave charge against the Populist party—"tainted with anarchism," the words of a famous author—"Every form of dissimulation is an evidence of weakness. Weak men unable to meet an emergency buttress their position with lies," and let me ask if these words fit the actions of those who went about with uplifted hands before the people solemnly declaring they meant to disfranchise no one, white or black, and affidavit makers, and those who said the Legislature would split upon any man who proposed such a thing, and yet this was the first and chief thing they did.

Is all this a form of dissimulation? If it is, then the words quoted above may be regarded as a grave charge against the party. "Let us forget."

SUITS FOLLOW FAIR.

Men Arrested for Giving Away Beer Want Damages for False Imprisonment.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 19.—Two suits have been instituted here for five thousand dollars each by Walter P. Shaner, agent, and Andrew J. Nolan, employee of the Chattanooga Brewing Company, against Charles M. Guggenheimer and Samuel T. Withers, officials of the Lynchburg Fair Association.

Shaner had a float in the trades parade on Thursday and later in the day carried it to the fair grounds, to which he was admitted. He began giving away beer to advertise his business and for doing so was placed under arrest on complaint of the fair officials. Shaner applied to Judge Adams, of the Campbell County Court, for bail and the Judge decided that there was no law under which he could be held.

Nolan was arrested along with Shaner, and both are suing on the ground of false imprisonment.

ADMISSION IN THE PRESENCE OF WITNESSES.

Asheville Gazette.

"Spruill followed in eloquent speech," is heading in the Raleigh News and Observer. One eloquent statement by Spruill was that 3,000 people were present at Louisville to hear Senator Pritchard. Spruill was talking in the presence of witnesses of the meeting there, but the Raleigh News and Observer neglected to quote that portion of his remarks.

STRIKES A RICH FIND.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H., "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She is a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed.

THE STATE AUDITOR

WRITES A REMARKABLE LETTER TO THE OFFICERS OF CORPORATIONS ABOUT THEIR TAXES.

THEY ARE ENCOURAGED AND ADVISED TO VIOLATE THE LAW OF THE STATE.

The Auditor Assures Them That he Will also Violate the Law by Accepting and Endorsing any Report of Their Property for Taxation That They may see fit to Make.

Reference was made in the last issue of the CAUCASIAN to the fact that we had received a copy of a letter which State Auditor Dixon sent sometime ago to the officers of the corporations of the State. We referred to the letter as a remarkable one. Those who read it and at the same time examine the law will see at a glance that the Auditor is in this letter advising and encouraging the officers of corporations not to comply with the law in listing their property for taxation.

Another remarkable thing in the letter is that the Auditor assures those parties that if they see fit not to value their property for taxation as the law requires, he will himself also violate the law by accepting their own appraisements of their property, no matter how low or ridiculous they may be. The law makes it the duty of the Auditor to pass upon each appraisal of property by a corporation, and if he does not consider it in compliance with the law then he is required to make a true appraisal of the property based upon facts contained in detailed reports which the law makes it the duty of the officers of each corporation to return as to the affairs of their corporation, which reports the Auditor is required to collect and keep in his office.

In the light of this brief statement of the revenue act, the following letter will be interesting:

BEN. F. DIXON, AUDITOR.
NORTH CAROLINA, AUDITOR'S DEPARTMENT,
RALEIGH, N. C., JUNE 25TH, 1901.

TO GENTLEMEN:

In accordance with Section 6, of the Revenue Act, 1901, I enclose herewith a blank form for the appraisal of capital stock of your corporation. The law requires that this appraisal shall be made by two of your officers, and between the 1st and 15th days of July, as to the actual value in cash of your capital stock on the first day of June. This is a novel law for our people and yet I do not think it was the purpose of the Legislature to oppress the corporations by an unjust tax. I am sure it is not the purpose of this Department to do anything of that kind.

I would respectfully suggest that instead of trying to arrive at the cash value of your capital stock from the amounts it declared in dividends or carried into surplus, or sinking fund, for any one year, that you could more readily arrive at its value by estimating it through your profits or loss for a series of years.

I want you gentlemen to understand that it is the desire of this Department to accept the appraisal, which you may make of your property for taxation, as final.

In enabling you to fill blanks above mentioned, I respectfully call your attention to the extract from the Revenue Act printed at bottom of blank form. With sentiments of highest regards, I am

Very respectfully,
B. F. DIXON, Auditor.

Why are these corporations favored at the expense of others tax payers? Why is this large amount of money to be kept from the school fund?

CZOLGOSZ BEARS UP.

He May Be Has No Fear of Electro-cution.

It was said at the state department of prisons that statements regarding Czolgosz as being in a continuous state of collapse, breaking down is false. Superintendent Collins had a talk with the condemned man some days ago and Czolgosz said he knew he had to die and expressed no fear as to electrocution, but said he did not care to go outside of the prison for he believed the people would kill him.

Since Czolgosz's confinement in Auburn prison several thousand letters have been received for him, as well as a large number of express packages containing flowers and fruit. Neither the letters nor the packages have reached the condemned man.

It is said that it would be a matter of surprise if the names of the senders of the fruit and flowers were made public.

A Halloween Magazine.

Superstition Trial, a powerful tale of the West, by Owen Wister, and illustrated by Remington, is the opening story in the Halloween number (Oct. 26) of The Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia. Other attractive features are a new episode in The Love Affairs of Patricia and a striking poem by Holman F. Day. Mr. May's ballad, The Night of the White Review, tells a weird tale current among Gloucester fishermen. It has all the swing and movement of Mr. Kipling's Dipsy Doodle, and a strength and originality all its own.

GENERAL DEWET SAID TO BE DEAD.

Is Said to Have Suffered Most Awful Agony from Gangrenous Wound.

Durban, Natal, Oct. 19.—General Dewet's recent inaction has produced the impression among military men that he is either dead or incapacitated through illness or wounds. According to a letter from Pretoria, a prominent Boer recently wrote to a friend that "Dewet suffered the most terrible agony before he died. He was wounded in the shoulder by a splinter from a shell, and the wound gangrened, owing to his being dressed with dirty rags."

Five Boers captured at different places recently said Dewet was dead, but each gave a different version of his death. Against these reports is a statement of Piet DeVilliers, the field cornet, recently taken prisoner in the northeastern part of the Orange River Colony, who said that on the morning of his capture he took breakfast with General Dewet.

Judge Fuller Dead.

The death of Judge Fuller, which occurred at an early hour Sunday morning, occasioned profound regret in Raleigh, where he was so well known and sincerely admired. Few men have been more highly esteemed and whose splendid ability has been so generally acknowledged and admired. The city of Raleigh was dear to the heart of Judge Fuller and he held a warm place in the affections of the people of this city, nearly all of whom he knew personally. The expressions of sorrow among the people with whom he had spent the best part of his life, and for whom nothing but feelings of admiration and respect were entertained, were genuine and sincere. All of the immediate members of the family were present at the funeral service his eldest son, Mr. W. W. Fuller, the general counsel of the American Tobacco Company, who is now in Liverpool.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Presbyterian church. The handsome edifice was filled with sorrowing friends who went to pay a last tribute of respect to the distinguished dead.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Eugene Daniel, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The hymns rendered by the choir, were "One Sweetly Solitary Thought," "O Sacred Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." The funeral service was deeply impressive and solemn.

The funeral cortege to Oakwood, where the remains were laid at rest, was a large one. The newly made grave was covered with beautiful and exquisite floral offerings. The pall-bearers were Chief Justice D. M. Furches, Judge T. R. Purnell, ex-Chief Justice J. E. Shepherd, Gen. W. R. Cox, Capt. S. A. Ashe, Col. T. S. Kennen, Capt. W. H. Day, Mr. J. B. Batchelor, Solicitor Ariston Jones, Mr. F. H. Busbee, Mr. G. Rosenthal, Mr. C. E. Johnson, Mr. Ed. Chambers Smith and Mr. Wm. B. Snow.

The members of the bar and veterans of L. O. B. Branch Camp attended the funeral in a body.

Liverpool Short of Cotton.

London, Oct. 20.—The shortage in cotton at Liverpool is becoming serious.

There are only a few cargoes on the way and supplies for a fortnight on hand. It is almost inevitable that a part of the machinery will be stopped and that there will be a repetition of the famine of a year ago, with possibly a strained situation lasting even longer than on that occasion.

The increasing tendency of American producers to combine for the maintenance of values is regarded as a serious factor, seeing the apparent impossibility of obtaining substitutes for the American staple to free the world from the domination of the Southern States of the American Union.

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 22.—Mrs. W. E. Sutton, of Neuse township, died Sunday night of strychnine poison. She was a member of one of the most prominent families of the county and was a most estimable lady.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS

Blind Tom, the great musical prodigy and marvelous genius, played to a large audience at Atkins Hall Tuesday night. Blind Tom is the only question a musical phenomenon—as is claimed for him he performs the most difficult classical compositions with skill and excellency. It is a rare treat to hear this musical curiosity and see him handle any kind of a musical instrument. It was very fortunate for Clinton to secure Blind Tom for a night as he rarely steps in so small a town.—Clinton Caucasian.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—it is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sores, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has become pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S. S. S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system a constant drain upon the system. When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sores or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviating pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sores and nourish the debilitated, diseased body.

Mr. J. B. Talbot, Lock Box 25, Winston, N. C., says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Springs, but found no relief. I was induced to try S. S. S., and it made a complete cure. I have been perfectly well ever since."

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for this service.

State Fair Opens.

The forty-first annual State Fair, surpassing its predecessors in every way, opened Tuesday.

The opening was most auspicious. Ideal weather, a fine crowd, and a fair the like of which has never been seen in the State, were the necessary conditions that made it so.

The Governor in a well chosen speech formally declared the Twentieth Century Fair open shortly before one o'clock, and then the great show began in earnest.

It was a fine crowd—a truly magnificent crowd for the opening day. The mammoth midway, the representative class of exhibits revealing the resources and products of the State as they never have been shown before at a fair, the sleek stock, the splendid racing events and the many free exhibitions were all interesting to the crowd.

Preliminary to the movement of the procession to the fair grounds Fayetteville street presented a gala day appearance yesterday morning. Flags and colors were waving, troops were marching to the strains of martial music, while the sidewalk was lined with thousands. The parade was a magnificent spectacle, headed by Chief Marshal Roberts and his aides, the Governor and distinguished visitors. On the arrival at the fair grounds the exercises formally opening the fair took place in the grand stand. Gen. W. R. Cox, the president of the fair, made the opening address, presenting the Governor when he concluded.

A bank officered and managed by negroes is in trouble. It is the dime savings bank, of Kinston, N. C., which has suspended payment. The liabilities are stated to be $6,000, assets $15,000. A run on the bank by negro depositors caused the trouble. Charles F. Dunn, the president, who for years has been a leader of the negroes in politics and finance, says the suspension is only temporary, the trouble being caused by the failure of a company that was financing a prospective railroad to Kinston.

Warning Signs

How is your heart? Does it flutter or palpitate, skip beats, or cause pain and tenderness in left side? Is the pulse too slow or too fast? Are you troubled with shortness of breath, choking sensation in the throat, or fainting, smothering or sinking spells? These are warning signs of a diseased heart. Why not make your heart strong and healthy?

"I was troubled with palpitation and weak heart for ten years, and at times was very bad. I tried many remedies without results, but a few doses of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure brought relief. It is the only cure for a weak heart."

Raleigh Business Directory.

A newspaper whose columns overflow with advertisements of business men has more influence in attracting attention to building up a town than any other agency that can be employed. People go where there is business. Capital and labor go where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build up a town as a newspaper well patronized, and its power should be appreciated.—T. DeWitt Talmage.

A Word-Building Game.

This game may be played without paper, pencil or appliances of any sort, and by any number of persons. Its success depends on having a good leader. Some one is selected as leader, and all he has to do is to give the players the first three letters of some word that he thinks of. Say, for example, that he thinks of the word "canopy"—he tells the players that the word begins with c-a-n, and what they have to do is to complete it.

There is no special order in which the players may answer, any one has a right to speak as soon as he has thought of a word beginning with the first player giving the right word gets credit for it; if two speak at the same moment, both get credit.

The interest of the game may be increased by limiting the number of letters that the word shall contain, but this makes it a little harder to guess correctly. Proper names and obsolete words are not allowed.

The skillful leader will sometimes make a good deal of amusement for the company by selecting words, the first three letters of which do not give a correct idea of the pronunciation. This naturally misleads the players, and they make all sorts of errors. Say, for instance, he gives the three letters, b-e-a; the players will be likely to answer with words the first syllable of which has the sound of "be," and they will be dumfounded, perhaps, when the leader gives "beau" as the word he had in mind.

The offer of a prize would increase the interest, and it is awarded, of course, to the player that guesses the greatest number of words.—Atlanta Constitution.

Crotchets of a Cynic.

Ridicule, unless barred with reason, is ridiculous.

To be thoroughly hated one needs but to be reasonable.

If many of us could see ourselves as we really are we should be ashamed to be on speaking terms with ourselves.

Woman's sphere, in spite of all that her apologists may say, is at the best but a hemisphere.

He that is successful can afford to smile; he that is not successful cannot afford to do otherwise.

We do not always learn from the mistakes of others, but we are always ready to profit by them.

Woman's visual memory is very defective, judging from the frequency with which she looks into a mirror.

When a man thinks one woman is different from other women it argues that he does not know either the one or the others.—L. de V. Matthewman, in October Smart Set.

Apples in North Carolina.

A correspondent of the Cotton Plant states that the Northern people know what a fine apple-growing section lies, largely undeveloped, in North Carolina. Apples, especially in the elevated valleys and plateaus west of the Blue Ridge, grow with a luxuriance seldom seen. The elevated regions of the foothills east of the Blue Ridge are also an excellent section and only need to be developed. One man is now planting an orchard at Blowing Rock, and has 40,000 trees at an elevation of about 4,000 feet. There is a great future in the apple culture in North Carolina, and with the markets of the cities in the South, and their nearest to export ports, there is no reason why the culture of the apple should not grow to great and profitable proportions in the western part of North Carolina. Some orchards are now being planted, but there is now for thousands who have capital and work up a great and remunerative business. Write us for information about tracts of land for sale, very cheap and well adapted to the raising of apples.

IS YOUR HEALTH VALUABLE?

Disease is always a handicap; it weighs men for business and pleasure—sometimes temporarily, often permanently. Life is a continuous struggle, and the man or woman afflicted with a Chronic Disease is outclassed at every turn. In this age of sharp competition, you can hope to be successful unless sound in mind and body.

During my long career as a specialist, I have seen thousands who are carrying around some chronic disease as a burdensome companion, which they could easily rid themselves of by the proper treatment. Any honest physician will tell you that these diseases are stubborn and obstinate, and a specialist is required to treat them successfully. My special fitness for treating Chronic Diseases has been acquired by twenty years of close application, devoted exclusively to their study and treatment. I have treated more cases than any other physician in the United States, and I thoroughly understand just what is required in each case. My specialty includes all chronic diseases, such as Stricture, Varicocele, Blood and Skin Diseases, Bladder and Kidney Complaints, Diseases of Women, etc., and my original method of treatment has proven successful in even the most obstinate cases.

I CAN CURE YOU AT HOME.

I have perfected a system of home treatment which enables me to cure you at your own home, as I have thousands of others. Write me fully about your case, and send for complete symptom blank. Correspondence confidential. Address: J. NEWTON HATHAWAY, M.D.

Some wives miss their husbands when away—and some miss them at home because their aim isn't accurate.

Men can be cured privately and positively at home of all weakness and disease. Write for new free book to Dr. J. N. Hathaway, 224 S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.
